

The Daily Courant.

Monday, May 17. 1708.

From the Antwerp Courant, dated May 22.

Messina, April 13.

THE 10th Instant arriv'd here a Frigate from Toulon, with Advice, that 10 Men of War were fitting out there and 20 Transports, to bring hither great Stores of Ammunition, Arms, and other Necessaries. All the Troops in this Island, to the Number of 5000 Men, are drawing towards this City, and are to encamp at St Lucia. We expect General Mahoni with 3 or 4000 Men from Spain before the End of this Month. Twenty Vessels, large and small, are fitting out here; with what Design is not yet known.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated May 22.

Genoa, May 5. We have receiv'd Advice, that a Galley of Sardinia, which was sent to Port Mahone with 25000 Crowns and Provisions for the Garrison, flood another Course and made to the Port of Naples, where all the Slaves were set at Liberty.

From the Antwerp Courant, dated May 22.

Milan, May 8. Besides the 4 German Regiments which are on the March for Piemont under General Zumjungen and suppos'd to be arriv'd there by this time, 6000 Men more broke up from our Neighbourhood the 6th to follow them; and a further Number will soon take the same Route.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated May 22.

Milan, May 8. The Succous design'd to be sent to Catalonia under the Convoy of Admiral Leake, will certainly consist of 10 or 12000 Men; and they wait only for that Admiral's arrival to embark. The Troops that are to serve in Piemont have march'd with such Diligence, that the Duke of Savoy will be able to review his Army by the 15th of this Month; in order to open the Campaign a few days after.

From the Harlem Courant, dated May 22.

Turin, May 4. 4000 Germans are come into the District of Vercelli; and his Royal Highness proposes to form his Army by the 20th, part at Suza, part at Pignerol. We have Intelligence that the French Forces which are to be employ'd against ours, will consist of 60 Battalions and 54 Squadrons. His Royal Highness has forbidden the giving any Passports to Passengers who would go into Dauphine or other Parts of the Enemy's Country; to the End the Enemy may not be inform'd of our Motions.

Vienna, May 9. Prince Eugene arriv'd here the 6th Instant, and has given the Emperour an Account of all that was agreed on in the Conferences held at the Hague and at Hanover. His Highness has frequent Conferences with his Imperial Majesty and his Ministers, and proposes to be going so soon from hence, as to be at Francfort the 26th Instant.

Hambourg, April 18. Yesterday one of our Burgomasters and two of our Senators went out to the Camp of the Troops of the Circle of lower Saxony, to receive the Propositions of their Generals. Being return'd, they communicated those Propositions to the Magistrates and Burghers assembled in the Town-house, containing in Substance, That they allow'd them 48 Hours to determine whether they would accept the Mediation of the Directors of the Circle, or receive into the City some Troops to redress the Abuses that had crept into the Administration; threatening in Case of Refusal to block up the City closely, to prohibit all Commerce, to confiscate all their Effects, to seize all the Burghers that should be found abroad, and to lay waste the 4 Bailliages.

A Burgomaster and 3 Senators are gone out again to Day to the Camp. 'Tis believ'd this Matter will end at last in punishing the Pockets of our Burghers.

From the Leiden Courant, dated May 23.

Hamourg, May 18. The King of Denmark's Resident here, is gone out to Day to the Forces of the Circle of the Lower Saxony which have encamp'd before this City; to signify (as is rumour'd,) that his Danish Majesty cannot suffer that this City should be bombard'd or otherwise attack'd and compell'd by Force to receive Troops of the said Circle; and has therefore resolv'd to cause 12000 of his Men to act against the foresaid Troops, if they shall proceed to Violence.

From the Antwerp Courant, dated May 22.

Paris, May 18. The 15th the King receiv'd by an extraordinary Courier from Spain, a Confirmation that the Duke of Orleans pass'd the Ebro near Caspe the 6th Instant, with 36000 Men, of which 8000 are Horse, and march'd towards Tortosa. The 16th an Express from Roussillon brought Advice, that the Duke de Noailles with his Army pass'd the Tech the 8th Instant, march'd over the Hills of Pertus into the Lampourdan without Opposition, would make a Halt of some Days for the coming up of his Cannon, which could not be drawn over those Hills without great Difficulty, and then pursue his March to Girone. The 15th at Night, the Marshal de Villars arriv'd here, and the next Day went to Versailles: 'Tis said he conforms himself with all possible Submission to the King's Pleasure; yet cannot forbear owning that he is uneasy at his being Order'd to Dauphine, which is a Country he does not know, nor is he acquainted with the Troops he is to command there; whereas he had form'd great and glorious Projects against Germany, and had flatter'd himself he should execute them with the more Facility, because he knew the Country perfectly well, and how far to depend upon an Army that lov'd him and had been us'd to his Methods of Acting. The Count de Medavy has sent several Couriers, to inform the King of the Preparations and Motions of the Duke of Savoy; which will hasten the Departure of the Marshal de Villars.

From the Paris Letter, or Gaz. a la Main, May 18.

Paris, May 18. By Letters from Genoa we learn, that the Duke of Savoy is not yet determin'd to give the Title of Queen of Spain to the Princess of Wolembutrel Consort of the Archduke: That he represents it wouldully his own Glory, and infringe the Rights of the Queen his Daughter: And that his Ministers who are at Milan, regulating the Limits of the Territories which the Emperour has made over to him, would insinuate to the Imperial Court, that perhaps his Royal Highness might be induc'd to acknowledge that Princess for Queen of Spain, if in Recompence for that Sacrifice, the House of Austria would put Cremona into his Hands, till the Pretensions of the several Potentates engag'd in this War shall come to be settled by a general Peace.

'This Story seems to be no less foolish than Malicious, for several Reasons, particularly this: That if it were a Question whether the Duke of Savoy will acknowledge the Consort of King Charles for Queen of Spain, yet there can be no Occasion for the House of Austria to Start it now more than at another Time; because her Majesty need not let her Foot on the Territories of his Royal Highness in her Way to embark at Genoa.

Brussels, May 21. The Troops from the Maese and and other remote Quarters, together with those that Winter'd in Lier, Louvain, and Mechlen, encamp'd to Day a little above this City, with their Right at St. Annepee and their Left near the great Causey. The Duke of Marlborough designs to advance the 24th towards Engbien, where the British and other Forces from Flanders will joyn him. Our Advices concerning the Enemy, are, that they are encamp'd in several Bodies; and have Orders to joyn to Morrow, or the 23d.

London, May 17.

Last Saturday the Lord Griffin was brought before the Court of Queen's Bench at Westminster; and he not offering any Reason why the Law should not pass upon him pursuant to his Outlawry, but only extenuating his Crimes and casting himself on the Queen's Mercy, was sent back to the Tower.
